

CRYPT-A-CROSTIC #33—Solution

Franklin Pierce Adams [aka FPA], “The Rich Man,” as printed in The Golden Book of Quotations, Golden Books, 1979. Probably first published in FPA’s column “The Conning Tower” in either The New York Tribune or The New York World in the 1920s or 1930s.

The rich man has his motor-car,
His country and his town estate.
He smokes a fifty-cent cigar
And jeers at Fate. . . .

Yet though my lamp burns low and dim,
Though I must slave for livelihood—
Think you that I would change with him?
You bet I would!

Although little known today, FPA had an outstanding career. A prolific versifier himself, he introduced many other well-known literati, such as Dorothy Parker, through his column. He was a member of the Algonquin Round Table and a panelist on “Information Please.”

Congratulations to the following solvers, listed in alphabetical order. Because of the email address problem that John alerted you to at the beginning of the month, no chronological Top Ten are listed for February. If you sent me an answer and got no response, please resubmit to mdunphy@hvc.rr.com and I’ll be sure to credit you on the next solution page. My apologies to all. —Accipiter
